Western Maryland Adopts BiBi Approach

To "keep WMC's program in Education of the Deaf in the forefront in the field of Deaf Education," Western Maryland College has revised their Deaf Education curriculum to "reflect an emphasis of a bilingual-bicultural approach to the education of children who are deaf."

Changes to the college's undergraduate Deaf Education and ASL curricula to reflect the new philosophy were announced at the same time.

See "BiBi thought for the Week," (page 2) for more on this exciting story!

Whoops!

An error in the 1992-'93 ISD calendar mistakenly identifies Monday, May 24th as Memorial Day. ISD will be in session on that day, and will observe Memorial day with the rest of the nation on Monday, May 31st. ISD will be closed on the 31st - students and staff may return after 3 pm. Classes will resume on Tuesday, June 1st.

Gallimore Contributes to Fund

ISD Elementary Supervising Teacher Laurene Gallimore's recent presentation at the Cleary School for the Deaf in Nesconset, New York, has increased the PTCO Superintendent's Fund by $1,000!

This account is available for staff use. To request funds, submit a PTCO Request Form to the Superintendent's office.

ISD appreciates Ms. Gallimore's efforts!

VIC Tours

Sandra Edwards from the Mississippi School for the Deaf will be visiting ISD for 2 1/2 days. Ms Edwards, a High School Reading teacher at MSD, will arrive in the afternoon on Wednesday the 28th and stay through Friday.

BIBI Thought for the Week:

"Teachers who desire to teach children who are deaf must understand the culture of the deaf community and develop competency in the language of that culture (ASL)."

Dr. Hugh Prickett, Coordinator of Western Maryland College's Deaf Education Program, Newly appointed Superintendent of the Mississippi School for the Deaf

The ISD Campus Bulletin is published weekly throughout the school year.

Thanks

The family of lifelong Elkhart resident Dorotha Longieliere donated her Miracle Ear hearing aid to ISD after she passed away last January. The Family Services Center's Audiology Staff will recycle the aid and utilize the money to provide assistance to a student who does not have the resources to purchase amplification.

The Preschool Department recently received a donation of picture matting for framing the artwork of ISD's creative preschoolers. Molly and Cary Cline of The Wallcovering Stop/The Frame Joynt & Gallery provided the framing materials. Ball State Participant Mia Cline provided the inspiration for their generous donation.

Thanks, Cline family!

Summer Tutor Sought

Parents of an ISD Middle School student are seeking a tutor for the summer. The family lives in Noblesville. They hope to find a teacher interested in earning some extra money over the summer. If interested, please contact Ida or Bill Wehrling, (317) 773-2577 TTY/Voice.

LRC Update

These four books are now available through the Learning Resource Center:

Importantant Announcement for the ISD Community!!

Attorneys representing David Letterman, Indianapolis native, Ball State graduate and nationally known celebrity, have asked ISD to submit a "wish list" for the coming school year.

The Superintendent's office will coordinate the list. The ISD community - including parents, students, and staff - are invited to add to the list (please include justification - "why is this needed"). Deadline for submissions is April 30th.

Ideas for the "wish list" will be reviewed by the Management and Consulting Teams before forwarding to Mr. Letterman's representatives.

Health Facts - From the Files of ISD's Health Center

Facts About Second-Hand Smoke

Tobacco smoke contains over 4,000 chemicals, including 200 known poisons. Every time someone smokes, poisons such as carbon monoxide are released into the air, which means that not only is the smoker inhaling them but so is everyone else around him. Studies show that nonsmokers who live around smokers are more likely to develop lung cancer than other nonsmoking adults.

Every time anyone lights up a cigarette, cigar, or pipe, tobacco smoke enters the air from two sources. The first is mainstream smoke, which the smoker pulls through the mouthpiece when he inhales or puffs. Nonsmokers are also exposed to mainstream smoke after the smoker exhales it.

The second, more dangerous source is sidestream smoke, which goes directly into the air from the burning tobacco. Sidestream smoke—which a nonsmoker inhales whenever he's around someone who is smoking—actually has higher concentrations of some harmful compounds than the mainstream smoke inhaled by the smoker. Studies show higher concentrations of several cancer-causing substances, as well as more tar and nicotine, in side-stream smoke. Carbon monoxide, which robs the blood of oxygen, can be two to fifteen times higher in sidestream smoke.

The evidence that cigarette smoking is the main cause of lung cancer in smokers is well-known. In 1986 the US Surgeon General reported that involuntary smoking can also cause lung cancer and heart disease in healthy nonsmokers.

Secondhand smoke has an especially bad effect on infants and children. A number of studies show that in their first two years of life, babies of parents who smoke at home have a much higher rate of lung diseases such as bronchitis and pneumonia than babies of nonsmoking parents.

Studies involving children five-to-nine showed impaired lung function in youngsters who had smoking parents when compared with those whose parents were nonsmokers. Smoking by pregnant women seems to predispose premature babies to respiratory distress syndrome.

Parents who smoke at home can aggravate symptoms in children with asthma and even trigger asthma episodes. Parents should smoke outside of the home and car or, better yet, quit smoking altogether.

Even among children without asthma, a team of researchers found that acute respiratory illnesses happen twice as often to young children whose parents smoke around them as compared to those with nonsmoking parents.

Student Employee of the Week

Ethen Grubbs has worked for National City Bank since the beginning of the school year. He has maintained an excellent attendance record and demonstrated good work ethics throughout the year. On April 20th Ethen will receive his second award for zero defects during the month of March. Ethen works in Remittance Processing and must maintain high quality work while always striving to increase the quantity of mail he opens. Ethen has consistently received good evaluations and maintains a good attitude. Congratulations to Ethen for being named Student Employee of the Week for the second time this year!!

Summer Positions Open

The ISD Student Employment Center is seeking applicants for two (nine-month) positions. Interested individuals should be motivated to work with students as group leaders during the Summer Work Program. This program will begin June 14th and end August 13th.

If interested in this position, please fill out a state application along with a resume stating qualifications related to this job. Send to Donna Stutler in the Student Employment Center by April 30th.

Willard Park Project

Willard Park on East Washington Street in Indianapolis is the original site of Indiana's Deaf school (the "The Indiana Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb" was the original name) The campus consisted of several buildings situated on 14.7 acres. The largest of the buildings contained both classrooms and dormitory areas.

In 1904 the city of Indianapolis purchased 10.2 acres of the old campus from the state to be used as a new city park. Retiring Superintendent Richard Johnson suggested to the city that the new park be named after the school's founder, William Willard.

In an article published in the Vevay, Indiana newspaper The Reveille in 1906, Senior N. Lawrence Ralston described the Main Building on the original campus as the school's largest. Ralston wrote that the building had several wings including a Study Hall, Chapel, Dining Hall, Front Hall, Hospital, and Dormitories. He explained that the boys and girls sat in separate areas of the dining hall, the girls on the north side and the boys on the south side.

On Friday, April 23rd 25 ISD High School students will take part in the first phase of the planned rehabilitation of Willard Park - the "Glad Bag-A-Thon."

Staff Development News

F.Y.I.

If you go to a workshop off-campus which the school has agreed to pay for, it is your responsibility to give the receipt to Kim Squires, ISD accountant - you cannot be reimbursed for anything without a receipt.

If you intend to bring in a speaker from off-campus, a contract must be written and sent through the state system (which usually takes approximately three months).

Re: Recycling

The school would like to implement a school wide recycling program in the fall. In order to get that project underway, a committee needs to be established. If you would be interested in being involved, please send a note to Mary Alice Moon, Coordinator of Staff Development.

BS List

Ball State has a new catalog of off-campus classes. One of the classes being offered at Fort Harrison is Multi-Cultural and Ethnic Education. A copy of the catalog is available in the Staff Development Office.

Positive Classroom Discipline

Fred Jones Positive Classroom Discipline is being offered July 26th - 28th and Fred Jones Positive Classroom Instruction on July 29th - 30th at Scottsburg High School in Scottsburg, Indiana. Registration is $275 for the Discipline class and $185 for the instruction class.

VU schedule

Vincennes University is holding four free places in each summer class for any ISD employee. If interested please sign-up immediately.

Vincennes University will also hold 4 spaces in all of the morning classes next fall (see fall schedule below). These classes are rapidly filling up so if interested, contact the Staff Development office as soon as possible.

PERSPECTIVE

Production systems

Companies seeking to cut costs, increase flexibility, reduce defects, increase customer satisfaction and enhance their international competitiveness are radically reorganizing their product-development and production methods. Here are examples and descriptions of three types of production systems:

Preindustrial

Cobbler making one pair of shoes at a time from start to finish

- Typical workers: Autonomous, self-employed artisans
- Skill requirements: Deep occupational skills
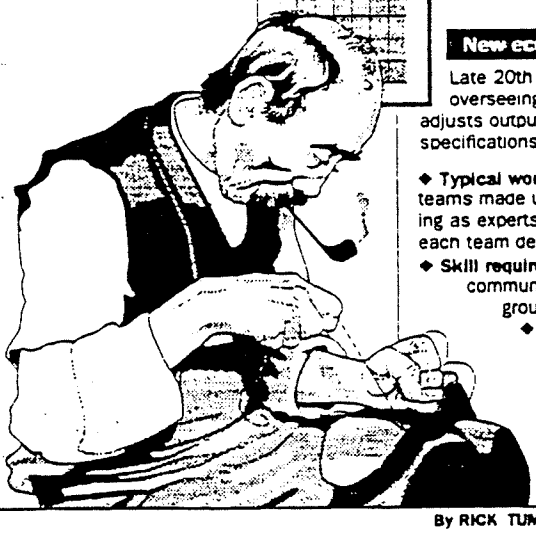
- Type of work: Hands-on, concrete, specific, repetitive

1890



Mass production

Mid-20th century shoe factory worker sews only soles on shoe assembly line

- Typical workers: Blue-collar workers assigned to specific, narrow tasks
- Skill requirements: Narrow job-specific skills
- Type of work: Hands-on, concrete, job-specific, repetitive

1949

Hand-operated stitching

New economy

Late 20th century shoe worker, overseeing cluster of machines, adjusts output to meet customer specifications

- Typical workers: Members of teams made up of individuals functioning as experts, brokers and leaders; each team dependent on other teams in a network
- Skill requirements: Deep technical skills; learning, communication, adaptability, personal management, group effectiveness, influencing skills
- Type of work: Hands-off and abstract; general technical and non-technical skills available to handle continuous changes

A LITTLE HISTORICAL PERSPECTIVE

Work is different today, and the workplace skills required have changed significantly in just the past five years. In the past, the skills needed to analyze a task and perform it were primarily to be able to look at, touch and manipulate the work to be done (or in educator's terminology the skills were visual/tactile/experiential).

Today, thanks to the pervasive influence of computerization, the skills required in the workplace are more "head skills" and less "hand skills." When a worker sits down now to do a job, more often than not, a computer-driven machine will do the physical labor, and the worker only enters instructions.

The challenge for education has always followed the nature of the work our students are asked to know how to do. At the turn of the 20th century, vocational education and industrial arts courses were introduced. Increasing diversity of the workforce, with the advances of the civil rights movement in the 1960s required a broadening of occupational training opportunities directed to special populations through such federal programs as the Comprehensive Education and Training Act (CETA), the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA) and Indiana Manpower Placement and Comprehensive Training (IMPACT). Today, technology spurs us on to the next advance in education, Tech Prep.
